Abstract (en)
The invention refers to a device consisting of a combination of a light (27), a side or vertical mounting (25) to attach a light (27) to a column (31), some columns (31) which hold the light (27) in a suitable position, which in turn are of a special design, which may include a smooth glass (11), a lens or a polycarbonate box thanks to its special configuration. This results in a multipurpose lighting system with a different architecture based on common parts.
