Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1857014A2] The application pen (1) has an application body (2) which is held on a bracket (14). A sliding projection (19) having a lever arm projects downward in relation to a base of holder, which is connected with the bracket and projects outside in pushing through a longitudinal slot (13) of a casing (3). A braking device, formed at a carrier, is activated by the sliding projection, which remains in friction or form fitting manner at inner surface (11') of the casing. The lever arm is in opposite position to the vertically extending carrier.
