Abstract (en)

Removable protection which is mounted as means of protection for intermediate levels or stages mounted on scaffolds. Said removable member has two vertical members (1), a toeboard (2), an intermediate bar (3) mounted for protection and joining said vertical members, and some upper and lower means of fastening, consisting of a mooring hook (4) and of a U-shaped lower piece (5) open at the bottom in association with a pin. The removable protection has an H-shaped general configuration formed by said vertical member and said intermediate bar. It allows assembly and dismantling in a quick and easy manner offering the necessary and statutory safety for undertaking work when an intermediate level is erected between two consecutive levels of a scaffold.
