Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1870554A2] The vault has a housing accessible through an isolatable door (10), and a disk (16) provided in the door and/or a wall, which defines the housing. The disk is connected with remaining wall or door material over a preset circular bar (18). The circular bar is formed in such a manner that the disk is surrounded by a machined or sliced circular groove (14), which extends from interior of the wall or door over a part of thickness of the wall or door material.
