Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2006114662A1] The invention relates to a holder for storing an inverted gel-containing bottle (13) or a tube in such a way that during a subsequent use the gel can immediately, easily and completely flow from the bottle. The inventive holder is designed in such a way that it is placeable on any horizontal surface and is movable without any additional handling due to the fact that no system for fixing to a wall or to a horizontal plane is required. The holder consists of a very large clamp whose cross-section is U-shaped. It comprises, at the bottom thereof, a quasiflat part used in the form of a base, two wings (1, 2) which correspond to the two U branches and form a contraction for holding the bottle in the inverted position in the holder top median part, wherein the top part of the holder is bell-shaped in such a way that a user is enabled to insert the inverted bottle therein by one hand only.
