Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1878672A1] The enclosure (1) has a bag that is made of a flexible plastic material. The bag has stacking sides (21), where the side has a thinning line (30) with a resistive force that is less than a deflagration force such that the bag is opened along the line, following a deflagration. The lines extend on a major part of dimension of a side for allowing passage of a product that stains a set of stacked articles, after the deflagration. The sides extend on sides of a welded edge (15) of the bag. Each line extends parallel to the edge at a distance comprised between 3 and 30 millimeter.
