Abstract (en)

The present invention refers to a projecting blind that is, a blind in which part of said blind is susceptible to projecting outwards to the exterior of the façade in order to achieve an inclined arrangement of part of said blind which is able to act as an awning when there is an obstacle on the sill of the window which tends to impede said projection such as for example, a balcony, railing plant pot, air conditioning apparatus, etc. in such a way that the blind is able to pass over said obstacle.
