Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1881571A2] The connector has plug connector parts, which are joined together, where the plug connector parts consist of a high load housing part (3a) for high load contact units and a low load housing part (4a) for low load contact units. The contact units are arranged parallel to one another and connected with one another in an axial direction. The low load housing part is designed integrally with the high load housing part.
