Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2006122612A1] The invention proposes an attachment (1) for bottles (30) for producing mixed beverages which has a housing (2) which is provided with a pouring opening and is designed for accommodating a pulverulent, liquid, pasty and/or solid mixing component. The mixing component can be mixed, if required, via a further normally closed opening, with a basic liquid contained in a bottle (30). The housing (2) is subdivided via a base part (13) into an accommodating chamber (16) and a connector (17) for a connection to a bottle neck (31) and is provided with an integrated opening device (7) for a portion (14) of the base part (13) which is provided with a predetermined breaking point.
