Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2006125604A1] The invention relates to a dispenser for liquid products, which comprises a container wall (1), a container base (2), a container cover (3) which is provided with an opening (5) and a removal insert (4) for the portional distribution of the product from the dispenser. Said removal insert (4) forms a line (11) which extends from the opening (5) to the container base (2, 8) and comprises a portional opening (7) which leads to the container base (7), said portional opening being arranged on the edge of the container base (2, 8) which guides a portion of the product into the portional opening (7) when the container is inclined, and said portion is then distributed through the line when the dispenser is tilted.
