Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1884436A1] The method involves dividing an image surface into two areas, where a diagnostic data, is displayed as text in an area, and status of the components of a rail car is displayed as graphics in another area. The status of the component, which is affiliated to the diagnostic data, is displayed along with the diagnostic data. Sensors are connected with an evaluation unit, which on recognition of an error sends a reference to the driver as text on a screen.
