Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1889969A2] The method involves transporting articles of clothing (14) in a transporting direction (13) through an admission chamber (11), a treatment chamber (10) and a discharge chamber (12) of a tunnel finisher. A transverse air flow is directed transversely with respect to the transporting direction of the articles of clothing through the treatment chamber. The articles of clothing are subjected to a counter air flow that is produced by introducing the air produced in modules (17) of the treatment chamber in the transporting direction.
