Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1903543A1] The device has webs (1a, 1b) each including ends reversibly connected with each other at a junction (5) for forming a fabric ring (2). The ring surrounds rotary positioning units (3a, 3b) that are formed by rollers with a structure directly or indirectly supported by a frame. The positioning units move the ring such that the junction is positioned at a standing level of an operator to form an integration/disintegration of the ends. An additional roller maintains the ring in position on the positioning units for opening the ring and placing a new web. An independent claim is also included for a method of changing a display formed by a display device.
