Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2007009138A2] The invention relates to a method for gluing precious stones (1) comprising a tapered rear face, especially consisting of cut glass, to leather (2), whereby a recess (5) is stamped in the leather (2) in the fixing region for each stone (1), said recess being smaller than the largest diameter of the stone (1). The end of the recess (5) facing the stone is enlarged by stamping according to the contour of the stone (1). The stone (1) is then glued in the enlarged recess (6) with the base layer (4) of the leather (2).
