Abstract (en)

The exercise ground has play field (1) with a ball target (2) and an underground ball retaining device (4,5). The exercise ground is suitable for both practice of the ball sport as well as for normal execution of the ball sport using the ball returning device, in which the ball emission position (6,7) is covered by a closure unit, so that a continuous field which is free from obstruction is designed. An independent claim is also included for the method for the change of a playing field for a ball sport into an exercise ground.
