Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1915917A1] The boot has a locking and unlocking device for locking and unlocking an upper cuff (42) with respect to a shell (41), and connected to a locking and unlocking unit e.g. closing buckle, by a cable (50). The connection between the cable and the unit is such that the passage of the unit from a position towards another position induces a cable traction. The cable is directly connected to a slide (48) that changes the configuration of the device by an action with a cam surface (49).
