Abstract (en)
[origin: DE102006023830B3] The device has a gripping body (2), which is to be gripped into a palm (7) of a hand (5). An intermediate piece (3) extends from the gripping body into a finger inner side (9) in the direction to a front phalanx (10) of a forefinger (8). A head part has a supporting surface for the phalanx, and bristle arrangements (11, 12) arranged opposite to a supporting surface. The head part engages two different usage positions relative to the gripping body, where the head part is rotated around its longitudinal axis around 180 degrees in one of the usage positions relative to the other usage position.
