Abstract (en)
[origin: DE102006057175A1] The covering (1) has a fastening unit (10) for fastening support elements to a facade (2). The support elements are attached at a distance under formation of a filling volume between the facade and the support elements, where the filling volume is filled partially with a loose material. The support elements are folded for the facade at a cutout (5) of the facade. The support elements have a lattice (7) that consists of steel.
