[origin: WO2007021974A2] Among other things, a publisher of digital content items is enabled to select a digital content item to offer to another party who will present it to users. The publisher defines terms under which the other party may present the digital content item to the users and receives a request from the other party to permit the other party to present the digital content item to the users. The request includes a location of a presentation context to which the request applies. The publisher is enabled to respond to the request.
