Abstract (en)
[origin: ES2278541B2] The rack has a rectangular frame (2) in centre of which a series of support rods (3) are arranged in parallel and longitudinal directions. The support rods form an actual unit to hold clothes. Each of the support rods includes an elastic filiform element (7) that is made of rubber. The filiform element is wound in a spiral fashion so that a longitudinal alignment of elastically deformable loops (8) is formed between the filiform element and the corresponding support rod for clamping the clothes and replacing traditional pegs.
