Abstract (en)

With hair scissors (1) having a cutting edge (2) on each of two blades (3), a joint (4), and two grips (5, 6), a finger hole (7, 8) is provided on each grip (5, 6). In order to achieve stable adaptation of the hair scissors (1) to differently sized hands, it is suggested that a finger hole (7, 8) be bordered by a bow (12), the ends (13) of which are designed as stops (9), and that the stops (9) be linearly movable along the grip (5, 6). The bow (12) can be lined or encased to achieve comfortable handling of the hair scissors (1).
