Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1936064A1] A jointing strip (11) has a basic structure strung together continuously or provided with perforations and the jointing strip has an anchorage structure formed out of a number of fiber ends jutting out freely from the surface of the basic structure for improved connection with the filler on at least one side, preferably on both sides. An independent claim is given for a method for fabrication of a jointing strip.
