Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2007038159A2] A modularizable and assembleable structure including a plurality of individual and three- dimensional shaped components, each being interengageable along opposingly extending edges in order to establish a three-dimensional and internally accessible structure. The components include a roof, a plurality of walls and a floor, each exhibiting an impression molded plasticized/polymer based construction with an aggregate filler material incorporated therein.
