Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1944134A1] The portable manually-operated machine tool has a housing (2) and a handle (3), which is fixed at the housing with two axle journals (4,5). The handle is supported in a tiltable manner with the former axle journal at the housing. The connection of the latter axle journal with the housing allows a swiveling relative motion between the handle and the housing. The grip side thrust piece (7), without mounted handle with the housing, is jammed positively by a hooking element (10) engaging into a receptacle (9) of the housing.
