Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1949883A1] The method involves assembling a bottle (2) at a fastener element placed at an end of a transfer body (13), where the body is in an inactivated position of a transfer set and a part of the body is inserted in an end of another transfer body (3). A part of the body (13) is moved along a displacement axle from the inactivated position to an activated position of the transfer set where the fluid communicates between a container (1) and the bottle. A portion of the fluid from the container is introduced into the bottle for mixing with a content in the bottle. An independent claim is also included for a transfer set for implementing a method for transferring fluid between a container and a bottle.
