Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1958789A2] A book-blocks (2) binding method involves a feed device (5) for holding the book-blocks which are comprised of several folded sheets and/or pages, and in which molten adhesive is applied to the spines of the books. For successive individual treatment of the book-blocks following application of the adhesive the applied adhesive is treated with cooled air so that the respective subsequent treatment takes place exactly in the required adhesive film-forming phase. Independent claims are included for the following. (1) (A) A device for carrying out the method (2) (B) Application of the method for an adhesive binder.
