Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2007070910A1] A laying aid for a floor covering (1) is disclosed, comprising at least one spacer for forming a connecting joint (5) between a wall (3) extending from a foundation (2) and the front face of the floor covering (1) for laying on the foundation (2) which is facing the wall (3), said spacer being embodied as a wave-shaped, curved leaf spring (6) for laying edgewise on the foundation (2). According to the invention advantageous construction properties may be achieved by means of providing the leaf spring (6) with at least one bulge (9) projecting from the leaf spring surface with a bulge axis running along the longitudinal direction of the leaf spring (6), a lip (11) running along at least a longitudinal section of the longitudinal edges and/or a recess (12).
