Abstract (en)
[origin: FR2895132A1] The harmonica has blade holders (11) comprising large face, against which vibrating sounding blades (111) are mounted, disposed sideways with respect to a mean longitudinal plane (Px) along an angle greater than 5 degrees. A pressing unit exerts a push along a direction parallel to the plane for assuring the placing and plating of the blade holders against corresponding support sides of lateral separation walls (101) of a rack. The lateral walls delimit channels in which an air stream, displaced by blowing or sucking by a musician, circulates.
