Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2007074486A1] The procedure comprises the following stages: dividing the needles into a first and second group of needles intercalated with one another; raising the needles in the first group along a path (A-A1) until they clear the previously-formed loop, while keeping the needles of the second group on a lower fabric-retaining level (A-B); partially lowering the needles in the first group along a path (A1-A3) on a higher fabric-retaining level (A3); keeping the latches of the needles in the first group open at said higher level (A3) while raising (B-B1) the needles in the second group to prevent the fabric from rising.
