Abstract (en)
A dust collector of vacuum cleaner is provided. The dust collector includes a dust separator, a dust container, a partition plate and a press member. The dust separator separates dust contained in air. The dust container includes a dust storage part storing the separated. The partition plate partitions the dust separator and at least a portion of the dust storage part. The press member is disposed within the dust container to decrease a volume of the dust stored in the dust storage part.
