Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1821271A1] The wall has parallel cuts or recesses (13) through which covering materials (10, 11) penetrate, where the cuts or recesses extend over the entire height of the wall. The wall is made of a core (12), which is a compact material or an expandable material. The cuts or the recesses are formed in the core through the covering material. The core folds or rolls the wall synchronously with the cuts or recesses. An independent claim is also included for a method for manufacturing a movable wall.
