Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1995936A1] The system has a receiver module (11) receiving order request for audio contents, where the requests are transmitted using a communication terminal (3) over a communication network (2). A computer based central unit (1) transmits the contents over the network to geographically distributed playback units (5, 6, 7), which are separated from the communication terminals. The receiver module is arranged in the central unit, which is designed in such a manner that the audio contents are transmitted corresponding to the order requests to one of the playback units for play back of the audio contents. Independent claims are also included for the following: (1) a method for requisition and playback of audio content (2) a computer program product with a computer program code unit.
