Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2003231A1] The method involves the start or end needle separating the mesh of the knitted fabric to which the yarn is to be joined using a split-stitch technique, whereby one mesh leg remains on the start or end needle (11, 12) and the other mesh leg is hung on the opposite needle before forming meshes with the start or end needle and all other needles in this row with the yarn to be integrated and then returning the second leg to the start or end needle.
