Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2011936A1] The present invention relates to a removable handle (1) for windows or doors that can be removed from the window or door frame to enable the panes to overlap when the window or door is of the sliding type, wherein the handle can be removed by pushing a button (2), in such a way that the pane adjacent to the handle-bearing pane does not collide with the handle during movement, the presence of a handle on each pane not being necessary, as with the removable handle (1) of the present invention it is possible to open first one pane and then the other.
