Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2011956A2] The device (1) has locking rails (4, 4') for prevention of a person by footstep. A rotation unit (3) is provided for section-wise rotation of the rails that are arranged in a defined solid angle around a rotational axis, and permits locking of the rails in a locking position that is tilted after over-coating over a rotation section. The locking rails from the locking position are tiltable under an electrical connection of two electrical potentials.
