Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2016857A1] The rucksack (1) has a rotationally movable lap belt (3) attached with a set of cushioning devices (11, 12), at a back wall (2) of the rucksacks. The device causes the launching of the power exerted by a load of the rucksack on the lap belt having the form of a back strap. The back strap is arranged in proximity of a central axis of the rucksack and in proximity of a lumbar region of the rucksack strap when wearing the rucksack and forming a channel through which the lap belt runs. The back strap is formed at a trapezoidal side that faces the rucksack strap.
