Abstract (en)

The multi-ply paper material comprises at least a first ply (V1) of tissue paper, embossed and joined by gluing to at least a second ply (V2) of tissue paper. The first ply (V1) comprises at least a first series of embossing protuberances (P1) protruding from a base surface toward the second ply (V2). Glue (C) is applied to the protuberances (P1) of the first series to join the first ply and the second ply. Moreover, the first ply presents a second series of embossing protuberances (P2) protruding from said base surface (SV1) toward the outside of the material on the opposite side with respect to the protuberances of the first series.
