Abstract (en)
[origin: EP2027809A1] The appliance (10) has an operating device (12), where a program of the appliance is defined as a sequence of individual program steps. The operating device has an operating unit for operating a graphical user interface (18) in which graphical symbols (26) are provided. The graphical symbols represent individual program step, and are connectable and/or adjustable by activation of the operating unit. The program is configurable by arranging the graphical symbols. The program is started and/or ended by the activation of the operating unit. An independent claim is also included for a method for operating a household appliance.
