Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2028115A1] The container (10) has a base element, and an edge element forming side walls (32) that are arranged and aligned at edge folding lines. The base element has rectangular shape, and is subdivided into three base portions by base folding lines. The base portions extend over entire length of the base element. The container is produced from a single piece blank forming the base element with the edge element. The side walls are arranged at a broad side in a bottom section (26) and connected with one another, where the blank is made of paperboard and/or corrugated board. An independent claim is also included for a method for producing a presentation container.
