Abstract (en)

A holder for detachably connecting a bottle comprising a cap and a reduced diameter portion located below said cap to a support comprises a means of attachment (2,3) for attaching the holder to the support, as well as two openings (5,6) which are interconnected via a passage (7). The holder is made of an elastically deformable material. The first opening (5), which is spaced from the means of attachment, is larger than the second opening (6), which is located near the means of attachment.
