Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2008015055A1] The problem of washing compositions which are frequently insufficiently differentiable to the consumer was to be solved. This was done essentially through a washing or cleaning composition which consists of washing or cleaning composition ingredients and is in particulate form or formulated in particulate form, and comprises a first type of particles which have a shape factor of at least 0.80, and a second type of particles which have a shape factor of below 0.80.
