Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2052978A1] The method involves detecting measured data of packaged goods (4) by a data detecting device, and transmitting the measured data to a display device e.g. laser projector. The measured data of the packaged goods or a carrier (8) are reproduced in a direct or converted form by the display device, where the packaged goods are arranged in the carrier. The data are shifted around a same amount and same direction during displacing the packaging goods, so that the data are represented in a same manner as before. Lights e.g. LED, are assigned to the goods. An independent claim is also included for a display device for packaging machines for packaging goods.
