Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008026089A1] A strap member is disclosed for use in securing a garment to a wearer. The strap member includes a looped portion and a non-looped portion. A first attachment is present for removeably attaching the non-looped portion to the garment and a second attachment is present for attaching the looped portion to the garment. The strap member also has an adjustment mechanism located at a point where the looped portion joins the non-looped portion. The adjustment mechanism allows the strap member to be adjusted in length. Lastly, the strap member includes an attachment mechanism located on said non-looped portion which allows the strap member to be opened and closed.
