Abstract (en)

[origin: EP2057918A1] The device (10) has a guiding surface (56) that guides the device during a relative movement between movable and fixed furniture parts along a guide rail, and a stop surface that is bent during reaching of a pre-set end position at a region of the fixed part or the rail. A resting and sliding surface (16) has a main surface area (18) lying on the rails in a normal condition, and an adjacent surface area (20, 22) is bent against the area (18) in a direction of movement (B) such that the movable part comes to rest in case of relative tilting on the rails.
