Abstract (en)

The floor element (1) has three profile boards (2) with predetermined length flexibly coupled parallel to each other, such that the boards are stacked on each other for storing and transporting the boards to an appropriate position. The boards are arranged parallel in an outstretched confused position. An articulated connection element (4) couples the adjacent profile boards. The connection element includes a guide (8) with an axis (10) laterally stuck on free ends, where the axis is engaged in a front side (6) of the boards, such that the boards are pivoted relative to each other. The profile boards consist of rot-resistant material, and extruded wood fiber/plastic mixture.
