Abstract (en)
A process for realising a tile comprises a stage of designing a virtual model (1) of the tile and thereafter forming the tile. The designing of the virtual model (1) of the tile consists in realising at least a virtual solid (4) starting from a base plane (2) as well as projecting an image (7) of the virtual solid (4) onto a virtual workpiece plane (8), such that the virtual workpiece plane (8) reproduces a three-dimensional image (7) of the virtual solid (4). Subsequently, the virtual workpiece plane (8) is reproduced on the tiles by means of one or more known processes.
