Abstract (en)
A newspaper or magazine holder comprising two opposed portions (2a, 2b), the first (2a) positioned along the folding line of the central page of the newspaper, the second along the spine down the first page of the newspaper, the two portions (2a, 2b) being kept in position through at least one locking means (6, 8) so as to ensure a flow of air between them. The invention foresees that at least one of the two opposed portions (2a, 2b) is made from Plexiglas and has a semicircular section providing, in addition to a support effect for the newspaper, also a magnifying effect.
