Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008089517A1] A support apparatus for a bouquet or floral arrangement is disclosed. The apparatus includes a body having a plurality of apertures passing there through, each aperture being adapted to accept a stem of a flower or cutting there through. The apparatus may include a series of legs extending from the body so that these can be moved between at least a first position in which they extend outwardly from the body, and a second position in which they extend downwardly from the body so as to support the body, and retain the stems so that these are substantially convergent at or toward the ends thereof. A related method for using the apparatus is also disclosed.
