Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008101571A1] An inner blank (40) that is initially formed in one piece and is processed in this form is used for the production of (cigarette) packs comprising a box part (11) and a lid (12), which are completely separate from each other, wherein the lid (12) is displaceable in relation to the box part (11). The inner blank (40) forms on the one hand a collar (33) and on the other hand a sliding tab (30). After completion of an inner pack by processing the inner blank (40), the sliding tab (30) and the collar (33) are separated from each other by means of a separating cutter (60).
