Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2008101748A1] The invention relates to an injector (1) for injecting fuel into combustion chambers (7) of internal combustion engines, in particular a common-rail injector, having an injector body (18), which holds an actuator (20), with a high-pressure connection (36) for fuel. According to the invention, it is provided that the injector body (18) is adjoined by an additional body (41) with a support point (43) for contact against a clamping bracket (10).
